

Heading not required, but good if it offers media a usable slant

FutureCycle Press Publishes Veteran's Book of War Poems

Cover image is a necessity

Begin press release with title, byline, & descriptive paragraph.

Half a Man

By Bill Glose

Half a Man lays bare the impact of war on the individual soldier, both on the battlefield and on the homefront. The book's first half, about war and life in the military, tells of the sometimes harrowing, sometimes maddening, but always emotional experiences of soldiers in today's Army. The second half is about the baggage a soldier brings home with him and the opposing feelings that threaten to tear him apart: the guilt, the pride, the joy, the anger. Evocative, imagistic, and mesmerizing, replete with telling details and enriched by occasional humor, this collection of war poetry is a brilliant portrayal of what all those touched by war must cope with on both the battlefield and home.

Include attention-grabbing blurbs

"He elicits all the many emotions that a soldier experiences and allows us a rare glimpse into how the people fighting and those caught up in conflict see war. Everyone will learn from this work."

— Richard B. Myers, General, USAF, Ret. 15th Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff

"Even as we must stare down the stark images presented, we are simultaneously held aloft by the poet's language and humanity"

— Jon Pineda, author of Sleep in Me, a Barnes & Noble Discover New Writers Selection

Provide purchase info, to include ISBN

ISBN: 978-1938853494

Available in both paperback and Kindle editions. See FutureCycle Press catalog at www.futurecyclepress.com

FutureCycle Press

Include recent photo, publishing credits and awards, and any other intriguing info

About the Author

Bill Glose is a former paratrooper, a Gulf War veteran, and author of the poetry collection, The Human Touch (San Francisco Bay Press, 2007). In 2011, he was named the Daily Press Poet Laureate. His poems have appeared in numerous publications, such as Narrative Magazine and Poet Lore. His articles have been widely published and honored by the Virginia Press Association, and his short stories have received many awards, including the F. Scott Fitzgerald Short Story Award.

More information at www.BillGlose.com

Include your website. Don't have one? Get one!